FOR SALE.

TO GRAZIERS.

In pursuance of the last will and testament of General David Forman, deceased, will be exposed to sale, at public vendue, (on the premises) on Wednesday the 25th day of October next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day,

THAT very valuable FARM and PLANTATION, lying on the Long Marsh in Queen Anne's county, state of Maryland, containing about five hundred acres, about fifteen miles from Chester town, six from Church hill, and twelve from the head of Chester.

This property is an object of very great speculation, particularly to any person in the grazing line, and in fact to any person wishing to vest their money in lands. There is a very large proportion of said farm laid down in timothy, and will cut grass sufficient, I doubt not, to pay a neat profit of 500 dollars a-year. There are also about twenty acres more cleared and fit to lay down in grass; and what renders it more valuable is, that when once the timothy is well set, it will last any person's life time: And what is called the bed of the Marsh, (of which there is a considerable part belonging to this farm) the soil is from four to six feet deep, of a black rich loom, and will average from two and an half to three tons of timothy an acre; and for two years past all the hay which could be spared from the farm, has sold at the stack for five pounds a ton. The arable land is calculated for wheat, rye, Indian corn, and particularly for what is called kite-foot or bright tobacco; it is well timbered, and contains maple swamps, that when cleared, will make meadows equal to any on the farm.

Any person wishing to purchase, can view the premises on application to Mr. Stephen Forman, on said farm. The conditions of sale will be, one half the purchase money on the first day of January next, and the remainder on the first day of May following.

By JAMES KINSEY, Esq.
Chief Justice of the supreme court of New-Jersey.

Notice is hereby given,

THAT upon application to me by Joseph P. Minnick, and John W. Bloomfield for themselves, William Bullus, John Moore, in the right of his wife Mary, John Bullus and Ruth Bullus, who claim an undivided sixth part of all that tract of land situate, lying and being in Springfield, Burlington county, containing eleven hundred and eighty-eight acres and a half of an acre or thereabouts, formerly devized by Mary Ludlam to Francis Bullus, who by his last will and testament devised the same tract to William Bowser, and John Turner in trust for Samuel Bullus his son in tee, which said Samuel Bullus by his deed bearing date on or about the 5th day of March 1796, conveyed the same to his children Francis Bullus, and the same Ann Bloomfield, formerly Ann Bullus, William Bullus, Mary Bullus, now Mary Moore, John Bullus and Ruth Bullus, I have nominated and appointed Job Lippencott, Esq. of Springfield aforesaid, Abraham Stockton and Chas. Ellis, both of the city of Burlington, commissioners, to divide the said tract into six equal shares or parts, and unless proper objections are stated to me on the 21st day of Nov. next, at my office in the city of Burlington at ten o'clok in the morning of that day, the said Job Lippencott, Abraham Stockton and Charles Ellis, will then be appointed the Commissioners to make petition of the said tract of land, pursuant to an act, entitled, "an act for the more easy petition of lands held by Co-partners, joint tenants, and tenants in common" passed the eleventh day of November in the year of our Lord 1789—Given under my hand the 30th day of August A. D. 1799.

CONTINUATION OF LATE

Foreign Intelligence.

OFFICIAL.

Report of Commodore Sir Sydney Smith to the Ottoman Porte, respecting the siege of the town of Acre by the Army of Buonaparte.

Constantinople, May 23.

"Buonaparte, after quitting Salahie, employed eight days in crossing the desart. In this march he lost a great many men and horses by bad provisions and the want of water, as well as by the sword of the Arabs, who never ceased to harrass him. On leaving the desart he took possession of Larissa, and afterwards of Gaza Lidda, and Ramle, which were very ill defended by the Troops of Ghezzar Pacha. On the 3d of March he was close to Jaffa, which he took by assault on the 7th, after having battered in breach —The Turks made a vigorous resistance, and the French were in a manner obliged to lay siege to every house. The whole Garrison were put to the sword; but this assault cost Buonaparte almost 1200 men. On the 17th of March the General entered Caiffe, and on the 18th he invested St. John of Acre. Commodore Sir Sidney Smith left Constantinople on the 19th of February, arrived at Alexandria on the 3d of March, after stopping some days at Rhodes and taking on the passage a French gun-boat la Marianna. On the 3d Commodore Trowbridge sailed for Sicily, and Sir Sidney Smith took upon him the chief command of the Naval Forces. On the 7th, Sir Sidney proceeded towards the coast of Syria, and on the 11th arrived before Caiffe; on the 15th he steered for St. John of Acre, to concert with Ghezzar Pacha, having got the start of the French by two days, which he employed in making preparations for the defence of that place. On the 16th about eight in the evening, after a chase of three hours, the Commodore took off Cape Carmel, the whole French flotilla, under the command of Eydoun, Chef de Division, laden with heavy cannon, ammunition, plat-forms, and other articles necessary for Buonaparte's Army to undertake the siege. This Artillery consisting of 44 Pieces, was immediately mounted on the ram-parts of Acre, against the lines an batteries of the Enemy, as well as on gun-vessels. The latter were employed with the greatest success against the enemy's flank, and forced them to slacken their fire. —The nature of the ground, however, permitted the French to carry their trenches within half a musket shot at the ditch of the place.

"On the 14th of April, Commodore Smith took a chebac from Damietta, laden with rice, flour, and biscuit, for Buonaparte.

"On the 30th of March, the French having formed a breach in the north-east part of the town, endeavoured to take it by assault, but were vigorously repulsed by the garrison with considerable loss.—The ditch was filled with dead bodies. The troops of Ghezzar afterwards made three successful sorties: the object of the last was to destroy a mine, which the Enemy had constructed under the covered way to the north east, in order to fill up the ditch near the old breach. The English took charge of this enterprise, and while 2000 Turks effected the sortie, they jumped into the mine, and finding that the works were not quite finished tore down the supports, and destroyed the construction. The English in this bold attempt lost only major Oldfield, of the marines, and one private; Lieuts. Wright and Jauverin, of the navy, Mr. Beatty, an officer of the marines, and twenty one soldiers, were wounded. After that an uninterrupted fire was kept up from that place, the artillery being served by the English and Turkish artillery men, who had set out from Constantinople on the 5th of March, The enemy's fire then ceased entirely, as Buonaparte wished to reserve his ammunition for a last effort, which gave no uneasiness to col. Phillippeaux, the chief engineer in the place."

The following copy of a letter writen by Buonaparte to Ghezzar Pacha, dated March 9, is circulated here:

"Since my arrival in Egypt, I several times informed you that I had no design to make war against you, and that my only object was to expel the Mamelukes. You returned no answer to the overtures which I made you. I announced that I desired you would drive Ibrahim Bey from the frontiers of Egypt, but instead of that you sent troops to Gaza: you formed there large magazines, and gave out that you intended to march against Egypt. You indeed began to put this plan in execution, and you threw two thousand of your troops into the fortress of Arisen, which is only six miles from the frontiers of Egypt. I was obliged then to depart from Cairo, to direct in person the war which you seemed to invite. The districts of Gaza, Ramel, and Jaffa, are already in my power. I have treated with generosity such of your troops as surrendered at discretion; but I have been severe towards those who violated the rights of war. In a few days I shall march against Acre; but why should I go to deprive an old man, with whom I am not acquainted, of the few remaining years of his life? What are a few miles more of territory in comparison of those which I have already conquered. And as God grants me victory, I will, like him, be clement and merciful, not only towards the people, but towards the great. You have no solid reason for being my enemy, since you were that of the Mamelukes, Your government is separated from that of Egypt, by the districts of Geza, Ramle, and impassable marches. Become my friend, be the enemy of the Mamelukes and the English, and I will do you as much good as I have already done you hurt, and I can still do you more; send me a short answer by some person invested with full powers, that I may know your views. He needs only present himself to my advanced guard with a white flag, and I have given orders to my staff to send you a pass of safety, which you will find here annexed. On March 21, I shall march against Acre, I must therefore have an answer before that day.

Verbal Answer of GHEZZAR PACHA:

"I have not written to you, because I am resolved to hold no communication with you.—You may march against Acre when you please. I shall be prepared for you, and will bury myself under the ruins of the place, rather than let it fall into your hands.

On the above answer, the French Editor of La Clef du Cabinet makes the following observations.

"It appears that such, indeed, would have been the fate of Acre and Ghezzar Pacha, had not the English Commodore Sir Sidney Smith thrown himself very opportunely into the place, to direct the defence of it, and above all, had not his squadron taken Buonaparte's artillery and ammunition, which were employed in defending the place they had been destined to reduce.—This event gave reason to believe that Buonaparte was obliged to raise the siege of Acre, and to fall back on Gaza."

TURIN, June 29.

Yesterday a courier from F. M. Suwarow arrived here for our commandant Gen. Kaim with the following dispatch: "Dear General! March immediately against Coni, whither I will send you a reinforcement of 10,000 men. Besiege that fortress and take it. Meantime I pursue the remains of Moreau's army, who has retreated into the Genoese." Hereupon Gen. Kaim put immediately 300 waggons in requisition, and was preparing to break up.

MODENA, July 2.

The 2d Russian auxiliary corps, of 11,000 men, has for the most part joined the armies of Generals Ott, Klenau, and Hohenzollern, who are all in pursuit of Macdonald.

Fort Urbano, near Bologna, still holds out, but is expected to surrender soon.

Near Samoggia, between Modena and Bologna, the Austrians yesterday surrounded a French corps of 800 men; 400 were made prisoners, the rest killed or wounded, and very few escaped.

Gen. Macdonald is collecting his troops between Pistoja and Lucca.

AMERICAN VALOUR.

The following is taken from the Star, a London paper of 18th July.

I sailed from Hampton Roads, June 18, in company with the ship Merchant, loaded by J. Brown, of Richmond, and consigned to Lamb and Younger London, bound for your place.—We out sailed her much, lost sight of her the same day. Nothing particularly occured for 24 days; but when in the lat. of 29, 2 and long. 17, 30, on the 10th of July, at 2 P. M. espied a lofty ship to the southward in chase of us. By her appearance we were all fully convinced she was an enemy, and being likewise certain we could not outsail her, at 4 P M. had all ready for action, down all small sails up courses, spread boarding netting, &c. at half past 5. P. M. we packed our main topsail, and laid by for her; all hands giving her 3 cheers; she then bore down under our starboard quarter, fired one gun into us, and shewed national colours; we found her to be a privateer of 22 guns, twelves, nines, and sixes, with small arms in the tops, and full of men. We immediately rounded to, and gave her a broad side, which commenced the action on both sides; the first broad side we received cut away all our halyards, top sheets and braces, and killed 3 men on the quarter deck.

We kept up a constant fire for two glasses and a half, when she sheered of to repair damages, and in about one glass returned to board us, with his bloody flag hoisted; we were all in readiness to receive him, got our broadsides to bear upon him, and poured in our lengrage and grape shot with great success. A heavy fire kept up on both sides for three glasses this second time, in all, the engagement continued for 5 glasses; at last he found we would not give out, and night coming on, sheered off and stood to the south west. His loss no doubt was considerable, as the last 2 glasses were so nigh each other, and our well directed fire must have done great damage. My brave ship's company acted with a degree of undaunted courage which no doubt does credit to the flag. I cannot help mentioning the good conduct of my passengers during the action: Mr. M'Kennon, and Mr. Hodgson, with small arms, stood to their quarters with a degree of noble spirit; my two lady passengers, Mrs. M'Dowell, and Miss Mary Harley, kept conveying the catridges from the magazine to the deck, and were very attentive to the wounded, both during and after the action, in dressing their wounds, and administering every comfort the ship could afford, in which we were nowise deficient for a merchant ship.

When she sheered off, saw him heaving the dead bodies overboard in abundance.—Our ship is damaged in the hull, one 12 pound shot under the starboard cat-head, splintered the sides much; one double headed shot through the long boat; sails, rigging, spars, prodigiously injured.

I here give you a list of the killed and wounded: Killed

John Leetch,
Samuel Hussman,

The Gazette.

PHILADELPHIA,

TUESDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 17.

The following is one of the publications at which that scoundrel vagabond, Dallas, displays such horrible irritation in his late compendium as of vulgar libels and turgid abuse, addressed to Robert Wharton, Esq.

Montgomery County, July 27.

FELLOW CITIZENS,

IN consequence of the importance of the ensuing election for Governor of this State, a large number of the citizens of Montgomery county, have assembled at the house of Nicholas Sweyer, in Whitepaine township; and upon due deliberation think it advisable to give their support to James Ross, of Pittsburg, for that dignified office—His integrity—his disposition—his eminent abilities—his patriotism and unshaken firmness, conspiring to render him a judicious selection, for that high and responsible station.

Committees consisting of persons attached to their country's best interests, and consequently most likely to exert themselves on that behalf, have been appointed for the several Townships, to promote Mr. Ross's election.

The Gentlemen composing the several committees, by turning their attention to what passed before the last general election, will feel themselves at no loss respecting one of the objects of their appointment—To them an useful lesson has been taught, by the conduct of those, who lost to every principle of public and private virtue, have set morality aside, and with the tongue of falsehood, traduced the government, slandered their officers, and with the foulest calumnies between their lips, rode from house to house, misrepresenting the laws, and poisoning the minds of the citizens, so as to lay the foundation of that insurrection, which ranked the county of Montgomery, amongst those in rebellion against the United States—Of conduct like this, the members of the several committees will be upon their watch; and by a vigilant attention to such disturbers of the public peace, will detect their falsehoods, expose their calumnies, and where the public good requires it, report their names to the other committees, that those traducers of our laws and the characters of our most valuable citizens, may be held up to public view as men devoid of truth, and unworthy of the confidence of their neighbours and fellow citizens.

It is of importance that particular notice should be taken of the arts that are practised to injure Mr. Ross's character—anonymous pamphlets and papers are in circulation, containing charges against him which are totally unfounded, and which there is no doubt were believed to be so by the authors themselves, and were intended to mislead the unwary and unsuspecting citizen, for the purpose of carrying a favourite measure. For if this was not the case, why did not the authors give their names—and why do they circulate their pamphlets in a manner which evinces, that they are unwilling an investigation should be had, and that their names should be publicly known—When the infamous aspersions contained in these pamphlets—the object of the lying arts, the low and scandalous devices of certain persons who have no character to loose, but that which they have gained by conduct that every American citizen ought to despise, and which would (if possible) disgrace even a French Jacobin; are considered, the necessity of being vigilant will be obvious.

Mr. Ross's parentage, his possessions, his religious and moral character are called in question—To men acquainted with him, and informed of the arts of those in opposition to his election, the slightest notice of such reports would appear unnecessary, but those who are unacquainted with him may think otherwise—It will therefore be advisable to make a fair representation of his character, by stating, facts as they really are. And with truth it may be said, that he has descended from a Farmer of respectable character, who is a native of, and now resident in the county of York in this state—that Mr. Ross by his extraordinary abilities, integrity and industry, has become conspicuous amongst the most distinguished members of the Senate of the United States—ranks with the most valuable and highly esteemed citizens of his county, and possesses that portion of property, which although it is sufficient to secure his independence and attachment to his country; yet its amount is not such as to raise him above his fellow citizens, or render him dangerous to the public—That in religion he is sound, and has been its constant advocate—and that even his opposers in politics who reside in his own neighbourhood, and are acquainted with him; acknowledge his morals to be unimpeachable.

It is particularly recommended to the members of the several committees, to use their best industry to convince their neighbours of the necessity of exerting themselves to promote Mr. Ross's election; as upon it our country's future prosperity and happiness very much depends. Every man in the several townships should be visited, excepting only such as are notoriously governed by French principles, and are under French influence; these are believed to be incorrigible, and from them no good is to be expected; but the other citizens ought to be cooly reasoned with—arguments and facts stated to them with candor, that their judgments may be convinced of the necessity of turning out to the election, and using their utmost exertions in support of the candidate herein recommended.

It will be adviseable for the committees to take to their assistance such of their fellow citizens as are willing to be aiding on this important occasion

These measures are recommended from an assurance that unless the evil practices spoken of are checked, we must fall a prey to those calamities which are the sure consequences of vices, so subversive of that public confidence which is all essential to the support of a Republican Government.

If we turn our eyes to the revolution in France we shall find, that deception, fraud and violence, have formed the ladder, by which the different factions have raised themselves into power, and that under their influence the people have been stimulated to acts of violence and cruelty to each other, which would be a disgrace to a nation pretending even to the smallest degree of civilization. Now if the people of this country who are opposed to our government, and who seem to be imitating the conduct of France should become sufficiently strong, and should persevere in their vilifying practices, have we not reason to fear that civil discord, which was fomented by the enemies of our government, and which lately rose into rebellion against the United States, will again appear with redouble fury—Neighbour will be in danger of personal violence from neighbour and citizen from citizen—the dreadful horrors of civil war, will be our unhappy lot. And we, when it is too late, shall have to reflect upon ourselves, for neglecting that duty, which as men, as neighbours, as American citizens, was assigned us to perform. With the example of France and the late insurrection before our eyes, can we hesitate to set our faces against the authors of civil discord, or will we refuse to rally round our Government as the place of our refuge, and as the only means under providence of our political salvation—It has hitherto preserved us from the fangs of France, and if we give it our support, we may with confidence rest satisfied, that under its banners we shall be safe.

Signed by a great number of the Citizens of Montgomery county.

Schooner Caty, capt. Toby, from St. Croix. In lat. 37, 20, long. 72, 00, N. spoke the schooner Jaref, from Norfolk bound to Grenada, out 5 days, all well. capt. Toby and a passenger on board inform us, that a few days before he sailed the ship Guernsey had taken a French schooner in sight of the harbour, laden with coffee, valued at 9,000 dollars.

Brig Sally, capt. Clapp, 17 days from Martinique, sailed in company with an English brig bound to Greenock, consigned to Wm. Kenyon.

By the brig Fox, captain Beebee, in 12 days from Port Republicain, we learn, that Rigaud had attacked and taken Petit Guave and that he had put all the white inhabitants to death.—Toussaint had caused 700 mulattoes to be apprehended and confined in gaol at Port Republicain, on suspicion of their entertaining treasonable designs against the government of the island,

When the brig Fox passed Cape Nicola Mole, a salute of 21 guns was fired from the forts, and the armed vessels of Genl. Toussaint entered the harbour.

Charleston, September 4.

The Frigate U. States, Commodore Barry, was off the Bar last evening; she has been on a cruise to the Southward, for three week past; has seen nothing.

The Fanny Allen, capt. Drummond, arrived last evening, in 12 days from Cape-Francois. We have been able to collect but little information by this arrival, as the captain brought no newspapers.

Upwards of 100 sail of American vessels had arrived at the Cape, since the intercourse, was opened; they generally arrived at a bad market, in consequence of which many of them had left the Cape for other ports.

Flour was on the rise; it was selling at 12 dollars, when captain Drummond left it. Coffee was at 32 sous, and 2 sous duty.

Rigaud and Toussaint were still at war, but capt. Drummond could not learn any particulars respecting their disputes.

A French ship arrived from Bourdeaux; three days before captain Drummond sailed; he understood that she brought news of an engagement having taken place between the French and English fleets, in which the former had the advantage; but he heard no particulars. The ship had a passage of 22 days from Bourdeaux.

There were no English vessels at the Cape. It was said that the government of Jamaica would not consent that they should sail as flags of truce.

Sept. 5. The United States brig South-Carolina, capt. Paine, anchored yesterday in Rebellion Road, from a cruise off the Havanna.

The brig General Pinckney;-Hayward, was at the bar last evening, also from a cruise off the Havanna.

Gore's Liverpool paper of the 25th July, has the two following paragraphs:— "The Lydia, Henderson, from New-York for this port, is re-taken, and arrivedat Plymouth.

"The Fanny, Braine, from New-York for Greenock, is retaken and arrived Falmouth."

The Harriot, Orr, from Baltimore, and 6th William and Jane, Nickels, from Massachusetts, arrived at Liverpool about the 26th July.

Baltimore, Sept. 14.

Arrived, the armed ship Sally, Captain J. Holbrook, from Liverpool.

Brig Juliana Charlotte, capt. Helmere, 70 days from Bremen.

Schr. Lucinda, capt. M'Candley, 14 days from Port Republican.

Ten sail came out in company with her under convoy of the United States ship General Washington.

The United States sloop of war Montezuma, John Malloney, Esq. commander anchored below the fort last evening.

The armed ship Sally, capt J. Holbrook, from Liverpool.

Weighed anchor yesterday, from below the fort, the MARYLAND sloop of war, of 26 guns, John Rogers, Esq. commander, destined we understand, on a cruise off Surinam.
